From Your Secretary

Our auction in April was very successful. We have tried over some time to improve the running of this event and now with the help of all those members concerned we now have a very well run event. What we now need is more material. So I would ask you all to look out material you do not want and put it into the auction and you may raise some cash to buy something you want.

We were again successful in the Basildon/Billericay Quiz but only by some three points, the questions put by Ray How were more difficult than before but our team of Peter Nye, John Church and myself won through. Those of you who missed my first full evenings display also missed out on freebies from the Isle of Man Post Office.

We have now started our thirtieth year. We have a very varied programme in front of us, including in December the President of the Royal Philatelic Society, Jane Moubray, who will be giving a display of the 2d Blue of 1840.

At the AGM John Church who has been the treasurer since the society was formed has had to resign due to ill health, but he is to remain on the committee. More about the AGM will appear in the next newsletter. As always we would like to see more members at our meetings.

New Issue Review by David Church

Those that know me are aware that I provide a World New Issue Service and some of you reading this will already be subscribers. Therefore, on this basis and at the request of our worthy Secretary (he that must be obeyed), I have agreed to write a regular column in The Basildon Stamp Collector.

Over forthcoming editions I shall be taking a look at new issues from around the world, both recently issued and those due for release.

There is an abundance of new issues these days and some pure philatelists do not rate what they call jam pot labels. However, you cannot get away from the fact that there are millions of collectors around the world who enjoy some of the colourful stamps produced, many combine their collecting with other interests such as bird watching or trains and have thematic as well as country collections.

Our hobby is there to enjoy and we should all collect whatever we get enjoyment from.

This years "Europa" theme is Tales & Legends and many countries are due to release stamps on the subject. Fans of horror will no doubt have enjoyed the 4 spooky stamps which our own Post Office issued on 13th May. They celebrated Bram Stoker's Dracula, Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, Robert Louis Stevenson's Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, Arthur Conan Doyle's Hound of the Baskervilles.

Other countries participating include Guernsey, Jersey, Croatia, Slovakia and a host of others too numerous to mention here.

Due for release soon

8 July
Great Britain - Horses. 50th Anniversary of the British Horse Society.

6 August
New Zealand - Scenic Trains (6 vals). The train collectors amongst you may be disappointed, as they are more scenic than trains.

What is going on in Hong Kong?

At the Hong Kong '97 stamp show recently the Hong Kong Post Office was reported to have taken the equivalent of £50,000,000 on current new issues at face value. The Post Office there had to leave its booths open until midnight on the opening day and security staff had to persuade collectors to go home. There were even 17,000 people queuing up outside the door before the Exhibition was open. I bet you thought that the British Post Office was raking in the money from collectors, didn't you?

There is a lot of speculation in the stamps of Hong Kong at the moment and buying prices are very high. The same appears to be developing in the stamps of Macau.

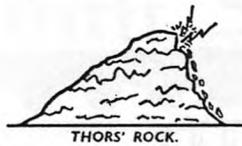

In the next edition I anticipate previewing some of this year's Christmas issues, the earliest of which I think is 3 September. Is it me getting older or does Christmas seem to get earlier every year?
